PETITION OF THE RECEIVERS OPPOSED BY CREDITORS.

County Collector Spry's Demurrer to ment of $60,000, the purchase price agreed upon and approved by the court, asked through their attorneys to be discharged.

Attorney E. B. Critchlow, representing George Arthur Rice and others, objected to the order of discharge being made, they having filed a suit in Intervention in which they alleged that Bacen had not dealt fairly with his creditors, but had concealed and held back $15,000 worth of his assets and that he had paid some creditors in full and given others a much larger dividend than the rest; that he had given some creditors four shares of Dalton & Lark stock and others only two for each dellar of the amount of their claims. For these reasons they desired to be released from their agreement to accept Bacon's note secured by two shares of stocks for each dellar of the amount of their claims.

They also wished that the receivers prosecute the suits instituted by them to have Bacon's Sanitarium stock and his stock in the St. Anthony Canal company declared a part of the assets of the bank, free from the incum-brances on those stocks, and for these reasons Mr. Critchlow objected to the discharge of the receivers.

The attorneys for the receivers urged that as the amount of the dividend of about 32 cents on the dollar on the ciaims of Rice was kept on hand and casims of Rice was kept on hand and could be paid into court, there was no reason why the receivers should not be released and in the suits to recover the Sanitarium and Sr. Anthony stock other parties could be substituted for the receivers as plaintiffs.

La these suits his honor ordered that H. H. Roa be substituted as plaintiff and the question of discharging the receivers he took under advisement.

Mercur Gold Mining Company vs. County Collector Spry.

Judge Cherry yesterday delivered his decision in the case of the Mercur Gold Mining & Milling company against William Spry, tax collector of Tooelecounty. The plaintiff brought the action to obtain a perpetual injunction against the defendant to prevent him from collecting $7.825 as taxes on the net proceeds of plaintiff's mine for the year 1896, and also for judgment for

The plaintiff sought relief on the ground that the assessor wrongfully assessed the net proceeds of the mine at $25,000 instead of $100,000, the alleged actual sum; that the net proceeds was paid to stockholders, who paid taxes thereon; that a certain portion of said tax is illegal, being 10 mills of said texy for the district of Mercur, a precinct of the county, and that the county commissioners failed and refused to correct the same.

tiff sought for a writ of mandate to compel the defendant to issue to him a warrant for salary alleged to be due on account of the alleged wrongful dismissal of the plaintiff from his office of provision inspector, was tried yesterday before Judge Cherry, with Attorney Harmel Pratt appearing for the plaintiff and Assistant City Attorney Hempstead representing the city. Plaintiff's attorney moved for judgment on the pleadings for a year's salary, $1.080, but this was denied.

In his affidavit for the writ McAllister sets out that he was appointed to the office of inspector of provisions on the 18th of October, 1894, for the term of two years and until his successor was duly appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the city council; that he is still inspector of provisions, for the reason that his successor has never been appointed, and that therefore he is entitled to back pay. It is further claimed by plaintiff that the city council never created the office, hence had no right to aboilsh it. Assistant City Attorney Hempstend, who appeared for Auditor Swam, argued that when power has been given to appoint to an office and the power has been exercised, any subsequent appointment to the same office would be vold unless the prior incumbent had been legally removed or the office had otherwise become vacant.

"The act of appointing exhausts the appointing power," he argued, "and void."

Continuing, he said: "This has already been judicially determined by the supreme court in the case of Kendall vs. Raybould and People vs. Mc-dall vs. Raybould and People vs. Mc-Allister.

"It is shown that Kendall was the kwful incumbent of the office of provision inspector from the 18th of November, 1892, until the 18th of November, 1894. The evidence in this case shows that McAllister was appointed to the same office twice. The first appointment was made in January, 1894, and the second appointment in October, 1894, both appointments being made during the time when Kendall was the lawful incumbent of the office, Therefore, both of the pretended appointments were void for the reason that there was no vacancy in the office at the time of the appointment.

"In February, 1896, the city council abolished the office of provision in-spector. Having the right to create, it also had the right to abolish."

Judge Cherry, after heaging the tes-timony and the arguments, took it un-der advisement.

Assistant County Attorney Ray Van Cott prosecuted and Attorney Hamilton defended the accused. Timmins was examined and positively identified Brown as one of his assaliants and he felt very confident that Duniap was the other one. The watch had been pawned in Ogden and had been traced there by Deputy Sheriff Burt and recovered. Testimony was introduced to show that both defendants were hard characters and had salled under many aliases. The hearing was quite exhaustive and ended by both defendants being held in bonds of $1,000 each for trial in the district court. They could not give the bonds and were taken to the county jail.

The divorce case of Charles W. Milner against Maud E. Milner came up for hearing before Judge Hiles yesterday, with Messrs. Powers, Straup & Lippman appearing for Mrs. Milner, and the plaintiff being unrepresented.

On September 25, 1891, Milner brought suit for divorce from his wife on the grounds of desertion and cruelty. He obtained the decree by default, and was awarded the custody of the two

In November, 1896, Mrs. Milner filed a petition praying that the decree against her be set aside, and as grounds for the petition alleged that it was obtained by fraud and false pretenses; that at the time the decree was granted she was very sick and was unable to attend to any business, and that the cheef. was granted she was very sick and was unable to attend to any husiness, and that she did not know anything about the proceedings until after the decree was granted. She further alleged that he, by faise pretenses, obtained her signature to an agreement to waive time and allow the decree to go against her by default, and also to accept $1,000 in lieu of alimony, and property right, the same to be paid if he could do so without crippling his business. She alleged she had no idea of the nature of the document when she signed it, and that she was too ill and weak at the time to understand it even if it had been explained to her. She further alleged that on the following day after the compalant was filed he rushed into court and took the decree on the ground of desertion, and at that very time they were living together right along, and continued to live together until October I, when she, for the first time, learned that she had been divorced, and that the children had been taken from her.

On this showing the decree was set aside, and Mrs. Milner was allowed to file her answer and cross-complaint, in which she, following up the statements in her affidavit, denied her husband's allegations of desertion and cruelty, and in the cross-comolaint prayed that she be awarded the divorce on the grounds of gross and long continued cruelty, the particular acts of which were specified in the cross-complaint. She also prayed for alimony and the custody of her two children.

Milner answered the cross-complaint and denied all the material allegations thereof, and yesterday the case came up for hearing, but Mr. Milner, who is said to have gone to British Columbia, failed to appear either in person or by counsel.

The catarrial poison first attacks and destrows the mucus membrane, then it rots away the very bone itself. This is the condition that causes the foul, sickening breath and makes you a pest, an abhorsence to your associates.

It extends upwards into the ear, through the eustachian tube, causing roaring, buzaing and ringing noises, partial or complete dearness, carache, discharges, cir. Moving on up to the eye and its appendages through the lachrymal duct, it causes the most intense pain, intolerance to light, granulated sore lids, conjunctivitis, cornitis, sclerotitis, irids, etc., ending in severe ulceration and destruction of the parts through decay.

It also extends downward to the respiratory tract, involving the larynx windoips, bronchial tubes and the lungs, causing laryngitis, with hourseness and partial or complete loss of voice, bronchits, chronic cough, asthma, consumption, etc., and again decay and destruction of the vital parts if neglected.
